Art direction

The whole screen is a contrast between warm and calm and cold and jagged. The Hush Light and the heroes glow with soft, rounded, candy-gel warmth. The Snarls are spiky, electric, and restless. You always know at a glance what to protect and what to clear.

Reference points, by name: the toy-box coziness of Animal Crossing, the readable lane clarity of Kingdom Rush, and the tactile, juicy feedback of fidget and ASMR mobile apps. Rounded display type (Fredoka) keeps even the UI feeling soft and pressable.

Cozy night
Warm pools of light in the dark. Safe, soft, bedtime.

Squishy candy-gel
Glossy, rounded, translucent. It looks squeezable.

The Squnchies

The Squnchies are a child's stress toys, each a different material with a different job. Every one is a glossy gel blob, rounded and squeezable, with a calm little face. Their shape hints at how they play: Splatter is wide and gooey, Stretcher is tall and pulled, Boinger sits mid-bounce.

Squisher

MVP

TEXTURE
Dense foam
ROLE
Single-target

Your reliable starter. A firm, satisfying squish that pops one Snarl at a time.

Splatter

MVP

TEXTURE
Gooey gel
ROLE
Area slow

Bursts into sticky goo, slowing and damaging a whole clump on the path.

Boinger

MVP

TEXTURE
Bouncy rubber
ROLE
Knockback

Springs Snarls backward down the lane, buying time and breaking up a rush.

Stretcher

PHASE 2

TEXTURE
Taffy stretch
ROLE
Long range

Stretches across the room to hit far-off Snarls before they ever get close.

Glommer

TEXTURE
Warm putty
ROLE
Support

Glows over nearby toys, buffing their squish and sharing the Hush Light's calm.

The Snarls

The Snarls are stress itself given a body: spiky, electric, and jittery, the visual opposite of the soft heroes. They march the lane toward the Hush Light. Each type asks a different question, so the mix of a wave is what makes you choose which toy to squeeze.

Jitter

MVP

Basic

Twitchy and weak. Comes in waves. Any squish handles it.

Knot

MVP

Tank

Slow and dense. Soaks up taps, so it wants a charged squish or some goo.

Spark

MVP

Fast

Darts down the lane and punishes an empty spot. Catch it with range or knockback.

Prickler

PHASE 2

Armored

A hard shell shrugs off small squishes until you crack it with a charged or area hit.

Tangle

MVP BOSS

Boss

A giant ball of knotted stress. The night's finale: needs everything you have, plus a Hush Pulse.

What the player sees

Squish currency
Earned from Snarls. Spend to place and upgrade.

The lane
Snarls follow one readable path to the light.

The squeeze
Hold to charge, release on the peak to attack.

Toy tray
Pick a Squnchie, then tap a slot to place it.

Calm meter
Fills with good squishes. Full meter is a Hush Pulse.

Snarl wave
A changing mix sets which toy is worth squeezing.

Hush Light
The room's calm. Protect it or the night is lost.

Hush Pulse
Board-wide ultimate that soothes every Snarl.

Designed for one-handed mobile play in portrait. Everything the player needs, the Squish balance, the Calm meter, the lane, and the toy they are squeezing, is readable in a single glance, so the calm board never feels busy.

SIGNATURE MECHANIC

The squeeze, frame by frame

The signature mechanic. Your towers are fidget toys, and you fidget with them. A single squeeze is a tiny arc of tension and release, tuned to feel good in the hand before it does anything strategic. This is the moment the whole game is built to protect.

1

Rest

A toy sits on the shelf, wobbling gently. Tap and hold.

2

Squeeze

It gives under your finger. Haptics and a soft sound

3

Charge

Hold to the wobble peak as the ring completes.

4

Release

Let go for a charged squish that hits the lane.

5

Perfect

Time the release on the peak for a bonus.

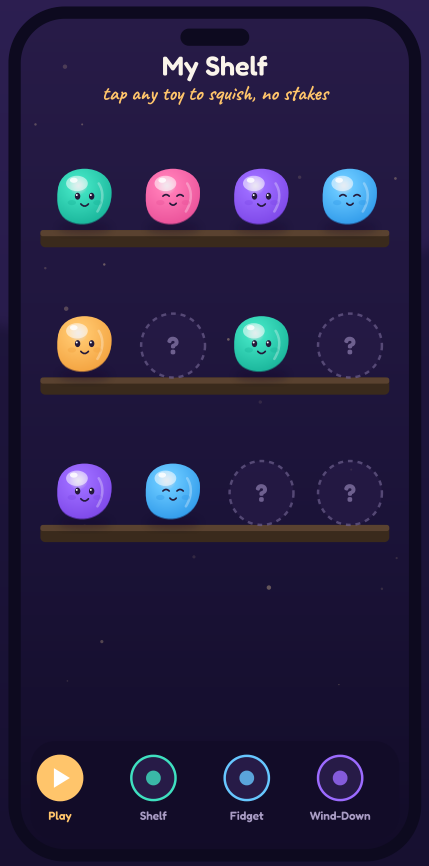

Charge ring fills as you hold

Haptic give: the toy deforms under your thumb

Perfect window: release on the wobble peak

The Shelf, and reading the board

SHELF HOME SCREEN

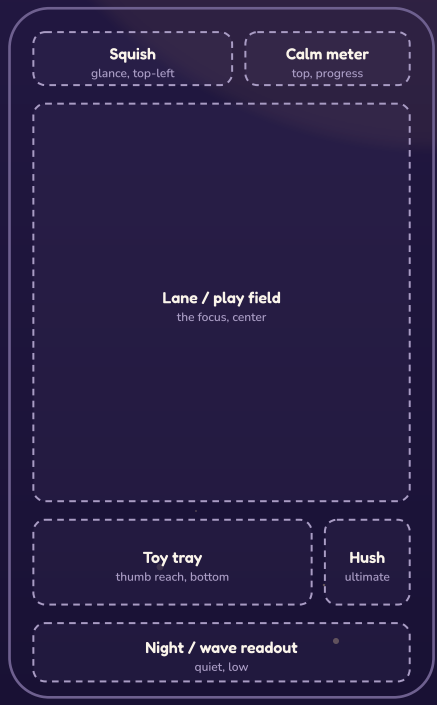

The Shelf is the home screen

Instead of a menu, you land on a real shelf of the toys you have collected. Tapping any one just squishes it, with no stakes, so the home screen itself is a fidget toy. Locked slots show as soft silhouettes: the almost-there pull that keeps the collection growing.

UI is design

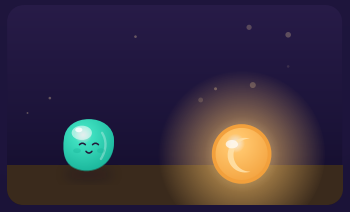

In a night, the hand lives at the bottom of the screen, so the toy tray and Hush Pulse sit in easy thumb reach. Status the player only glances at, Squish and the Calm meter, sits up top. The lane owns the middle. Nothing competes with the toy you are squeezing.

IN-NIGHT HUD WIREFRAME

Rooms, and the moment it all pays off

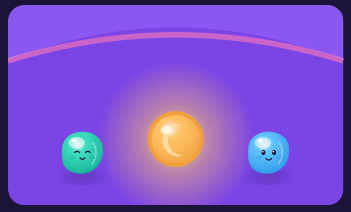

Rooms: the worlds escalate

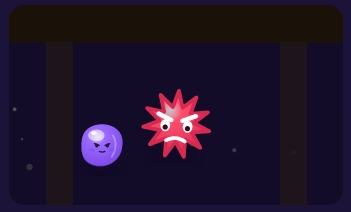

Bedroom Shelf
Calm. One straight path.

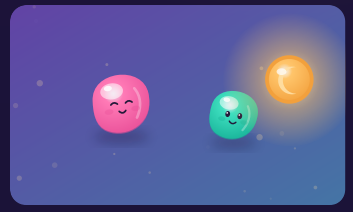

Toy Chest
Cozier, busier. First bends.

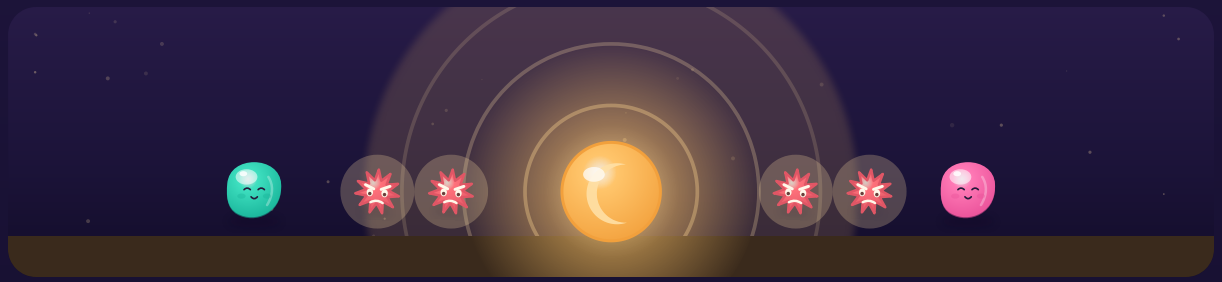

Blanket Fort
Soft and dim. Branching lanes.

Under the Bed
Dark and tense. Pricklers.

The Dream
Surreal and warm. The finale.

Key moment · the Hush Pulse

The turning point of a hard night. The Calm meter fills, you fire the Hush Pulse, and a warm wave rolls out from the Hush Light. Every Snarl slows to a soothed crawl and the whole room glows. Chaos becomes calm, which is the feeling the entire game is built around.
